Give reference for each. (b) How many of the closing chapters of Judges reveal how degenerate a nation can become when it has no ruler to administer its affairs?

(a) What verse, referring to the political condition of Israel. appears in chapter 17 and reappears in chapters 18, 19 and 21. and what privilege did every man exercise at that time? (b) How many times in the book of Judges is it recorded that Israel "Did evil"?

(a) During the period of the judges, to how many heathen kings did Israel become enslaved, and for how long in each instance? (b) Which judges established an interval of peace, and how long was each interval? (a) How many years were there in Samson's restless administration? (b) What question did Israel, as one man, present to the wayward tribe of Benjamin? (a) What did Israel demand of the men of Benjamin at this time? (b) What was the attitude of the men of Benjamin, and what did they do? (a) What physical peculiarity existed among the men of Benjamin, and in what were they experts? (b) In the conflict that followed between brother and brother, how many were slain, and on which side? (c) In the second battle how many were slain, and on which side? (d) In the third battle which side was victorious, and how many were slain upon the defeated (a) How many times and how earnestly did Israel seek God's counsel during this critical period in Israel's history? (b) What question did they ask of God the first time they went up to the house of God? (c) What question did they ask the second time they went up? (d) What question did they ask of God the third time, through Phineas, the grandson of Aaron, as he stood before the ark of the covenant? 78. (a) After the awful slaughter of the men of Benjamin that almost annihilated the tribe of Benjamin, what did the men of Israel, weeping, say to God? (b) To save the tribe of Benjamin from being utterly lost to Israel and to God, what did they permit, after providing 400 virtuous young women as wives for that many men? (Comment: The dances referred to, being in Shiloh, were evidently devotional dances.) (a) What book in the Bible, named after a woman, describes a rare domestic life in the time of the judges? (b) What words reveal the devotion of a young matron to her godly mother-inlaw? (c) What salutations, at that time, were exchanged between employer and employed? (d) What interest did Boaz, the employer, take in Ruth, one of his employes?
